Derivative Highlights.

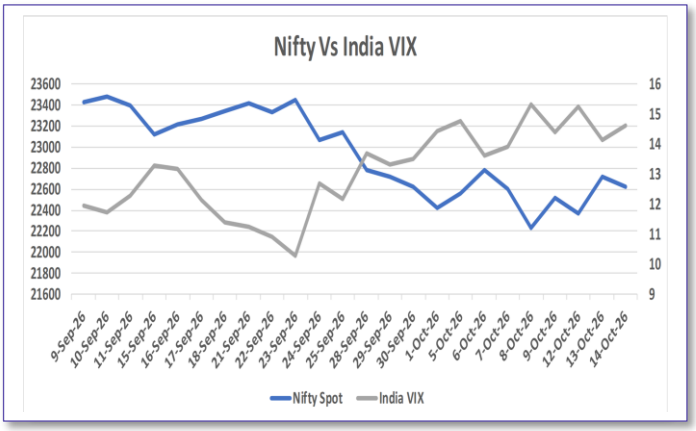

- On Wednesday, Nifty Futures attempted to extend the recent recovery; however, sellers remained active at higher levels, continuing to cap the upside and preventing the index futures from sustaining its gains. The recovery eventually lost momentum, with Nifty Futures declining nearly 210 points from the intraday high and closing 0.82% lower, indicating renewed selling pressure at higher levels. On the derivatives front, fresh short build-up emerged, indicating the addition of bearish positions. However, the lack of strong trading volumes suggests that selling participation remained subdued. Implied volatility remained elevated, reflecting uncertainty among market participants. Meanwhile, the cooling-off in the Put-Call Ratio from higher levels indicates a shift from bullish positioning towards a more neutral setup. Overall, the market continues to lack clear directional conviction, and a decisive breakout on either side will be required to establish the next meaningful move.
- Meanwhile, Bank Nifty Futures closed 0.52% lower and continued to trade within the prevailing range, indicating a lack of clear directional conviction, with sellers continuing to cap the upside. On the derivatives front, fresh short build-up emerged, indicating the addition of bearish positions. However, the absence of strong trading volumes suggests limited aggressive participation from sellers. Meanwhile, the Put-Call Ratio remained in the neutral zone, indicating relatively balanced positioning, with both buyers and sellers active. Implied volatility remained elevated, reflecting uncertainty among market participants. Overall, the index continues to exhibit a range-bound structure with a cautious undertone, and a decisive breakout on either side will be required to establish the next directional move.
- For the Weekly series, the 22700 strike has significant call open interest, followed by the 22800 strike. On the put side, 22600 has a substantial open interest, followed by the 22500 strike. Going forward, the 22500–22480 zone could act as immediate support. A decisive break below this zone could revive downside momentum towards 22330. On the upside, 22770–22800 could act as an immediate hurdle. A sustained move above this zone could extend the pullback rally towards 22950. Until a decisive breakout emerges, the index is likely to remain range-bound, with the broader structure still cautious.
- In Bank Nifty, the 55500 strike has significant call open interest, followed by the 56000 strike. On the put side, 55000 has a substantial open interest, followed by a 54500. Going forward, 54900–54800 could act as immediate support; a break below this zone could trigger fresh selling towards 54400. On the upside, 55800–55900 could act as an immediate hurdle, while a sustained move above this zone could extend the pullback towards 56300.
